

PJG Introduction
OCS Advisory Board Workshop
January 29, 2020

P.J. Goodwine is a practicing attorney headquartered in New Orleans. After eighteen wonderful years at Slattery, Marino & Roberts and its predecessor firm Schully, Roberts, Jaubert & Marino, P.J. became a founding partner in Looper Goodwine PC with offices both in Houston and New Orleans.

P.J. has extensive experience representing clients in a variety of oil and gas matters, including acquisitions and divestitures, contracts, title and title curative issues, financings, regulatory matters, litigation, bankruptcies, and general commercial litigation. He represents primarily independent oil and gas exploration and production companies in legal and regulatory issues, including rendering advice on Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act matters, BOEM, BSEE, and ONRR regulatory issues, and Louisiana Mineral and Energy Board and Office of Conservation matters.

P.J. has also served as special oil and gas counsel to trustees, official committees, and debtors-in-possession in several notable oil and gas bankruptcies over the years.

P.J. has spoken at OCS Advisory Board workshops in the past and, as I am sure he will say, enjoys this group more than any other. With P.J. today are several other representatives of Looper Goodwine, PC and each look forward to interacting with you today and at the reception this evening.
