

Biography-Alicia Dodge

Alicia is a native Calgarian, who grew up with a dad in the oil business, who started and ended his career with Schlumberger. Inspired by her dad's passion for the industry, Alicia went to the University of Calgary for her Bachelor of Commerce majoring in Petroleum Land Management. In 2002, she moved to Houston as a new hire for Anadarko Petroleum Corporation (although she interviewed for the position in the Greenspoint office, her first day was in this building).

At Anadarko, Alicia spent time working the Offshore Gulf of Mexico until the offshore was sold to Apache in 2004. Alicia worked on that A&D team and remained in A&D for 2 years until moving into region land in East Texas.

In 2006, Alicia joined Mariner Energy, Inc. where she worked the Gulf of Mexico and South Louisiana. When Mariner was sold to Apache Corporation in 2010, Alicia joined Apache and worked Deepwater, South Louisiana, and got reacquainted with those Anadarko properties! She joined Walter Oil & Gas in August 2018.

Alicia has continually served in many volunteer positions in HAPL, NHAPL, AAPL, IPAA, and various non-profits, and since 2008, Alicia has served a Board Member for the IPAA/PESA Energy Education Center with whom she spends time teaching at area high schools.
