

Andy Adams - Biography

Andy Adams is a partner with the law firm of Gieger, Laborde & Laperouse, LLC. After obtaining a Minerals Land Management degree from University of Colorado at Boulder in 1985, Andy started his career at Shell Oil Company as a Landman. While at Shell, he obtained a MBA from California State University at Bakersfield and a JD from Loyola University in New Orleans. In 1999, he joined his current law firm, and in 2006 he left New Orleans to open the Houston office for the law firm.

Andy's practice focuses on upstream agreements pertaining to the Shelf and Deepwater OCS, also includes OCS title examination, and assisting clients with BOEM and BSEE regulatory issues. Andy is a member of the Louisiana and Texas State Bar associations, a member of AAPL, HAPL, and PLANO, and is Texas Board Certified in Oil, Gas and Mineral Law. Andy is Chair Elect for the Oil, Gas and Mineral Law Section of the Houston Bar Association.

Please join me in welcoming Andy to the Seminar.