

Pete Hetherington

Pete Hetherington has been exploring the Gulf of Mexico for over 36 years. After receiving degrees in geology from the University of Illinois and the University of Kentucky, he began his career with Chevron in 1981, and came to work at Walter Oil & Gas in 1992. He has generated over 100 “conventional” (non-resource) prospects that have been drilled in a variety of trends, both onshore and offshore, some of which were actually productive. He has been actively involved in the Ewing Bank area since 1998, and still hasn’t figured it out.
